

Reception Weekly update: date

Messages:

It has been lovely to meet you all on our first week back! The identity boxes and All About Me worksheets we have received look so wonderful. Could I remind any who have yet to bring these in to do so, as the children will be sharing these with their peers next Monday!

Settling in week:

The children have done very well settling after such a long time away. They have all had time to explore our indoor activities such as our construction areas, home corners and drawing tables. We have had fun reading a collection of stories based around the theme 'Who am I?' To further this theme, they have been completing self-portraits to add to their Learning Journals. The idea is to get them to think about what makes them each special, individual children and how they can express that through talking, playing and creatively.

Music:

This week, they had their very first music session. They got to think about the different levels of pitch between sounds, whether high or low. They also got to learn about different beats and how to count them in a clapping and dancing game. They thoroughly enjoyed this part!

Homework:

Complete identity boxes and All About Me worksheets. Think about things that make you who you are, such as your hobbies, favourite foods, favourite songs etc. to share in a circle time next week.
